

question to the thoughtful and honorable men of the country."

Loud Guffaw.

Soon after beginning his statement, Mr. Tillman injected the words, "This is Tillman talking now," which caused a titter in the Senate and considerable laughter in the galleries.

When Mr. Tillman had concluded, Senator Allison asked to have read the President's letter to him. He only said that his object was to have the letter made a permanent record and Mr. Tillman's statement.

Mr. Nelson interposed with a motion to lay the pending amendment to the rate-bill on the table, which closed the incident.

DICTATE TERMS TO PRESIDENT

Aldrich and Followers, in Complete Control, Change Rate Bill at Will.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 15.—The victory of the opponents of effective rate legislation to-day in the Senate, when they voted down all amendments to change the composition of the Interstate Commerce Commission, was perhaps the most important they have won. It was perfect, leaving absolutely nothing more to be taken by the victors.

They even went so far as to amend the clause of the commission to seven, and allowed the membership to remain at five, as at present. This was after all amendments looking to increase of membership and to their distribution had been defeated.

Dictate to President.

It is perfectly plain that Senator Aldrich and his friends are so completely in control of the Senate that they will dictate to the President the composition of the Interstate Commerce Commission. They will turn down for confirmation any member who is not satisfactory to them, and to the interests they represent. This is the view of the Democrats of the Senate almost universally.

Senator Martin spoke in favor of Senator Lodge's amendment, increasing the membership of the commission to nine members, which was originally his amendment, as Senator Lodge admitted. Senator Martin said he accepted the amendment to his opposition, which were the increase of salary from $10,000 to $12,000, and the provision that three of the members, at least, should be laymen. He did not think the question of salary should be considered in view of the importance of the work to be done by the commission.

The essential features of his amendment, said Senator Martin, were the increase of the membership and its distribution. He declared he had no intention of saying none of the present commission should be appointed to the new one. The vital feature of the amendment was that which would be from a different judicial circuit. This was necessary in order to have the diversified interests of the country properly represented on the commission.

The present commission comes from one-sixth of the country. He did not want any two members from the same judicial circuit.

May Vote To-Day.

The rate bill will be voted on finally in the Senate to-morrow afternoon, according to Vice-President Fairbank, to-morrow night to the Southern Methodists, and at the Vice-President. "I would not think of leaving the capitol until the rate bill is disposed of."

There is a belief in some quarters that the final vote will not be taken until Friday. It is expected that the bill will be finished to-morrow afternoon late.

The bill might have been finished to-day but for the persistence of certain senators in having amendments added to the bill after it had been read. The Senate was tied up on an amendment to modify the free pass amendment when it occurred.

Senator Hopkins was also trying to have the Senate reconsider the amendment to the bill by which pig lines are declared carriers. The bill declares that pig lines shall be regarded as carriers, and then says that a carrier shall not go on the thing it hauls, save and except material for its own use. The effect would be that no oil company could never own its pipe line, something contemplated by the bill. The Senate will have to settle on this matter to-day, and will also have to settle other matters in connection with the bill that will require considerable time.

SESSION OF HOUSE.

Vote of Confidence in Navy Department After Hot Debate.

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The House today decided to vest in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia the power to appoint the board of education having supervision of the schools of Washington. Instead of in the Board of District Commissioners, which is the present appointing power. Effort was made to prevent the proposition of plans for the Great Lakes naval training station, but an amendment was agreed to providing for the employment of a consulting architect, the plans and superintendence of the construction of the new buildings not to exceed 35 per cent. of the cost of the plant, which is fixed at two millions.

The House, by a decided vote, reaffirmed its faith in the Navy Department, defeating an amendment of Mr. Tawney, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, that the reports on a ship to 10 per cent. of the cost, the vote of confidence coming after two hours' hot debate on the Tawney proposition.

Having reached the section of the naval bill dealing with increase in the navy, and realizing that considerable debate would ensue, the House adjourned until noon to-morrow.

VIRGINIA BREAKS WITH NORTH CAROLINA

Reported Severance of Athletic Relation Between Two Universities—The Cause.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 15.—A report comes from a Georgetown University athletic authority that there will be no football game this fall between the Universities of Virginia and North Carolina. The initiative was taken by the management of the Virginia team, because it was charged the Carolina authorities were lax in the matter of barring professionals from their teams. Just what caused the affair to reach a climax at this time is not known at present, but that there has been a severance of athletic relations between the two is said to be certain.

The first intimation that such a breach had occurred was made known to Manager McCann, of the Blue and Gray football team, who this week received a letter from the "Tarheel" manager to the effect that, because of the sudden and unexpected wave of reform that has recently swept over the Virginia institution, North Carolina had been given the cold shoulder and stricken off the schedule for the Thanksgiving date. While such a game would mean much to the finances of athletics at the school, the fact that the same date had been settled on for a game with George Washington was enough for Manager McCann, who the subject as entirely out of the question. The fact that this Thanksgiving date could not be arranged is not likely, however, to keep the two institutions from meeting in their annual game.
